Costume Dance Represents Many Climes and Ages

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carroll Have a Carnival in Their Home—She Is the Goddess of Night.

There was a picturesque carnival of nations in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carroll, No. 44 East Seventy-seventh street, last night. Famous women stepped from portraits by old masters and joined grand dames of the Colonial period in patches and powdered hair, Turkish nobles and sylphs, German peasants, fanciful characters, French students and even the typical Parisian apache. It was as colorful a company as has gathered in any house in New York this winter, although it numbered less than a hundred all told. Mrs. Carroll, as "Goddess of Night," in a dress of black chiffon, glittering with gold and silver stars, and Mr. Carroll, as a Turkish nobleman in a costume which his grandfather had brought from Orient, complete in all its details, received their guests in appropriate surroundings. They entertained a few at dinner before the others, suggestive of many periods and climes, arrived from other dinners.

Those at the Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll's guests at dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brookman, Mr. and Mrs. James Deering, Mr. and Mrs. Theron F. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Lyttleton Fox and Mr. and Mrs. John Asperen. Mr. and Mrs. Brookman were Spaniards of the sixteenth century. Mr. and Mrs. Deering were pique and pique. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce stood respectively for modern Turkey and Spain. Mr. Fox came from modern Spain, but his husband was an Apache with his back upon Turkey. Mr. Asperen fell back upon Turkey. She had her sartorial inspiration, while her husband was ultra modern and extremely dignified in English court dress.

Then came the other guests bringing with them suggestions of the modern stage. Mrs. Dudley O'Neil, 24, was a charming soubrette in spangled yellow. Mrs. Sims Gill Wylie was a racy, Miss Caramel Carroll a Spanish maiden in black and yellow. Mrs. Annie L. Short a dancing doll in pink and white. Miss Katherine Force a piquette, Miss Frances Weyth a Turkish maiden, Miss Fiske Manning a Quaker girl, demure in gray. Miss Ada Bryce Gray an Italian peasant woman, and Mr. Henri Harknell a pique.

Some of the men who arrived for dancing wore their red hunting coats, and those in severe black and white were the exception to the rule of gay colors.

Others at the Dance.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Francis V. Hoppin, Mr. and Mrs. S. Oakley Vander Pool, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cobb, Jr.; Mr. Sims Gill Wylie, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wheaton Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ashmun, Mr. and Mrs. Margaret C. Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Vanderpool, Jr.; Mr. Dudley O'Neil, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Ullman and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart C. Adams. Misses Eleanor Brown, Emily Albert, Marguerite Simon, Violet L. Hamilton, Ursula W. Brown, Madeleine O'Brien and Susanne H. Carroll, Messrs. Craig Wade, Worth, Fielding Jackson, Cleveland Cobb, Oliver Wagstaff, S. Frederick Wells, William Henry Young, Louis Stewart, Jr.; C. Alan Hibson, Jonathan Thompson, Frederic Wellman, Jay Coogan, Lauren Carroll, Lawrence Atterbury, George Hedger, Roy Pierce, Daniel Riker, Jr., Adison and Hulse, Carmack, Henry Spies Rip and Wadsworth Lewis and Mr. Henri Martin, Chargé d'Affaires of the Swiss Legation at Washington.

Mildred Knew.

Indianapolis News:—The school teacher was giving her small pupils an instructive talk. "Now, children, all the clothes you have on were made out of wool, and that wool was once on the backs of the little lambs. Then she passed on to other subjects. To finish her lesson she returned to her first talk and asked questions of her small charges.

"Now, Mildred," she said, "what is your coat made of?" "It's made out of wool, Alice's coat that she wore last year," replied the little girl, earnestly.

Puzzled.

Los Angeles Express:—"What's the matter, John?" "Why, ma'am, here's a note from the master in which he tells me that he's off on a little holiday and he wants me to send his drawing materials along."

"Well, and isn't that plain enough?" "Hardly, ma'am, I don't know whether to send his paint brushes or a cork-screw."

Motor Car Touring Society Dines Among Automobiles and Club Houses

MOTOR CAR TOURING SOCIETY'S DINNER.

Novel Decorations for Table and an Aeroplane Overhead—Minstrel Show for Guests.

The Motor Car Touring Society, which is to automobile and aims to be to aviation what the Coaching Club has been to driving, gave a dinner last night in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The dinner had novelty in the manner of entertainment that followed it, in the fact that women were among the guests and also in the decorations of the table.

The guests sat about a large oval table in the Palm Mall suite. Surrounded by groves of candy trees and shrubs were four sugar houses in which the members easily recognized similarity to the club houses at Tuxedo and Lenox and to the Newport and Trouville casinos. Highways well up to road road qualifications wound through bits of picturesque scenery from club to club, with miniature automobiles dotting them. The club houses were illuminated by tiny electric lights and the lights of the automobiles were in working order.

The scene recalled to the members tours which they have made in this country and abroad, and, suspended over their heads, was the symbol of their future—an aeroplane. It was a model monoplane lent for the occasion by Mr. Claude Grahame-White, six feet in length and perfect in all its details.

The hosts at the dinner were Messrs. Albert Eugene Gallatin, president of the club; Percy R. Pyne, 2d, the vice president; and Orme Wilson, Jr., secretary; Francis L. V. Hoppin and Malcolm D. Sloane, who with the officers are governors; Vincent Astor, R. Thornton Wilson, Marshall R. Kernochan, Moses Taylor

Pyne, Jr.; Robert Golet, Ogden Mills Reid, Buell Hollister, Bayard C. Hoppin, Hermann Oelrichs, Oliver Iselin, Alexander D. R. Pratt, McKim Hollins and Conland Field Blanton. Mr. Bishop, being in mourning, was not present.

Among the guests were the Duchess de Chaulnes, the Duke of Newcastle, Lord Fairfax, Mrs. Alexander D. R. Pratt, Mrs. Francis L. V. Hoppin, Mrs. Bayard C. Hoppin, Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.; Misses Maud Van Rensselaer Kennedy, Helena L. Fish, Louise Iselin, Marjory Curtis, Angelica Schuyler Brown, Elsie Nicoll and Laura V. Webb.

The dinner over, hosts and guests went to the Blue Room, on the floor above, where a second chapter in the evening's entertainment was opened by negro minstrels, who sang Southern melodies and danced to the music of their banjos and bones. Several young men joined the company for the minstrel show and to participate in the dancing which brought the evening's amusement to a close.

HINTS ON HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL

TO CLEANSE HAIR AND SCALP.—Fluffy, brilliant hair frequently is ruined through the use of shampoo containing "free" alkali, which impoverishes the hair-sacs and makes hair dull, stringy and brittle as well as causes dandruff. A pleasing and very beneficial shampoo mixture can be made by dissolving a teaspoonful of anhydrous borax in a cup hot water. When this is rubbed on the head it creates a wealth of thick, white lather that cleanses each strand of hair, dissolves dandruff and neutralizes excess oiliness. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, evenly and is left soft and glossy. Occasional shampoos with anhydrous borax restore the original shade and brilliancy to the hair as well as induce a luxuriant growth.

COMPLEXION-BEAUTIFIER.—This simple, home-made lotion is unsurpassed for correcting complexion upsets and restoring the blush of youth to the cheeks. Its continued use corrects complexion upsets and makes rough, oily skins smooth and clear, as well as protects the complexion in cold weather.

Local Men Win Commission for Perry Monument

Messrs. Friedlander and Seymour to Direct Building of $700,000 Memorial in Lake Erie.

Two architects in New York, Messrs. J. H. Friedlander and A. D. Seymour, have received the commission for the building of the great Perry memorial, which is to be constructed at Put-In-Bay, Ohio, in commemoration of the battle of Lake Erie, which was fought near that place on September 13, 1813. The work must be finished in time for the centenary, and the ground will be broken for the foundations as soon as possible.

The memorial is to consist of a great Doric column, 250 feet in height and 45 feet in diameter at the base. It is to be surrounded by a huge lantern so that it will be a lighthouse as was ancient Pharos. On the left of the column will be a museum measuring 75 by 120 feet, in which will be paintings, prints and statues connected with the biography of the hero of the battle, Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry. At the right, surrounded by a colonnade, will be the marble figure of a sleeping woman typifying the present accord between the United States and Great Britain.

It is estimated that the structures will cost $600,000, while the landscape gardening will add another $100,000 to that amount. The structures will be built of marble or granite.

There were eighty-five architects in the competition. The cost of the work is being defrayed by an interstate committee. The national government has aided in the project. The work is of especial interest, as it is the first large project to be passed upon by the National Fine Arts Commission recently appointed by the President.

100 PAINTINGS TO GO UNDER THE HAMMER

Collection of the Late William Buchanan To Be Sold—Works by Famous Artists.

Notable pictures of the Barbizon School and other works of art, gathered by the late William Buchanan, are to be sold at auction, under the auspices of the American Art Association, of Madison Square South. Mr. Buchanan, who was a resident of this city, was a partner in the tobacco business of the late David C. Lyall, whose art collection was sold three years ago. Mr. Buchanan devoted his leisure to the study of pictures and became a discriminating amateur.

Among the one hundred canvases to be sold are three by Millet, "The Baker," a nude, and "The Churner." Two paintings by Rousseau appear in the list, "Georges de Saxe" and "Portrait of a Boy." There is also a "Landscape" by Delacroix, "Juno, Venus and Cupid," Corot appears with "A Silver Landscape" and "Landscape and Figures." The work by Daubigny includes "Sunset, River and Trees," "Banks of a River" and "Springtime."

It is not often that Antoine Barye, distinguished as a sculptor and at times a painter in water colors, is represented by works in oil but two of his canvases in the collection are in the collection. They are "Denise Forest" and "Trees and Rocks."

Other artists from whose studios the works came are Castin, Courbet, Fortuny, Jacques Rico and Schreyer. The pictures are to be sold in the hall room of the Plaza, and the bric-a-brac and furniture in the Association's galleries.

Mr. Henry E. Huntington yesterday purchased in the galleries of Mr. Victor G. Fischer, at No. 167 Fifth avenue, a charming work by Raeburn. The price, it is understood, was more than fifty thousand dollars. The work is a portrait of Mrs. Ferguson, of Trochrogate. It is mentioned in Armstrong's book on British Art and has been exhibited abroad. It was acquired by the Fischer galleries this season.
